LA-ABOTA JACK DANIELS TRIAL SCHOOL COURSE DESCRIPTION

The Jack Daniels Annual Program for Trial Advocacy 2024 is presented by the Los Angeles Chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates (LA ABOTA).

The purpose of this course is to enhance the participant's skills as a trial attorney. It is an intense and demanding course, that has the participant on his/her feet arguing, questioning, and developing their skills. The emphasis of the course is on developing trial techniques and skills rather than knowledge of substantive law.

The subject matter covered in this three-day intensive course will include voir dire, direct, cross and redirect examination, opening statements, and closing arguments. The length of the program is designed to enable interested attorneys to participate who might otherwise not be able to break away from their practice for a longer, more expensive program.

The technique of teaching trial advocacy is to immerse the student in the actual performance of all phases of the trial. Each performance will be immediately critiqued. Participants will learn under the guidance of experienced trial lawyers and judges in a simulated courtroom environment.

TEACHING METHOD

These sessions involve a team-teaching method, which emphasizes student performance in dealing with hypothetical problems in trial technique under the supervision and critique of the faculty. The students perform as trial counsel in some trial or trial preparation phases. Students are also expected to contribute to the team teaching by participating in critiquing performances by other members of the class.

Because the class exercise entails live performances, each exercise is to some extent a distinctive experience. One of the advantages of this method is that students can see various models, observe differences among equally competent lawyers, and realize that each trial lawyer must develop techniques suitable to his or her personality and talents.

ENROLLMENT AND METHOD OF SELECTION

Because enrollment is limited, the responsibility for making the selection, if applications exceed the number of allotted places, will rest with the course director. Certain guidelines have been set up with regard to selections. Factors that will be considered include, length of time practicing law (from one to five years given preference), practical experience the applicant has, and a demonstrated involvement in trial practice. It is suggested that an applicant have at least one year of experience in law.

APPLICATIONS WILL BE ACCEPTED UNTIL JULY 15, 2024. The applications will be screened as received, which may result in a priority in favor of early applications.

The tuition for the course is $500.00, which includes daily lunch, parking, seating, and MCLE credit. Once accepted, an applicant must deposit the entire tuition one week prior to the start of the program. The application, check, or credit card payment to LA ABOTA must be mailed to 2520 Venture Oaks Way, Suite 150, Sacramento, CA 95833. The tuition will be refunded only upon a showing of good cause for withdrawal, except for $50.00 to defray administrative expenses.

FACULTY

One of the most valuable parts of this course is the participation of distinguished jurists and practitioners. The faculty is made up of ABOTA members. They will give students a sophisticated and experienced view of trial practice, making this program a meaningful learning experience.
